The Norwood Picnic.

The Norwood picnic which was held in that city last Thursday, Friday and Saturday was a decided success, and each day was well attended.

There was a little disappointment in the concessions and entertainment, part of the program, as the parties whom had signed up with the local committee "flunked" on their part and failed to show up. But the committee at once got busy and managed to get a fairly good bunch of entertainers on the ground, Mr. Glass, who had the movie show deserves a great deal of credit for making the three days a success, as they drove ninety miles to accommodate the people and to be at the Norwood picnic. They also donated the use of their tent to the people of Norwood to be used in conducting a baby show, the speaking and for the band. But for all this, the Norwood picnic was a great success, and was highly appreciated by many. Friday was designated by the Norwood citizens as "Mansfield Day" and Mansfield did full justice to the honor. They turned out with over 20 cars making the trip, and with 200 or more persons as visitors, many going over the Frisco road. The Mansfield Band going in a body which constituted about 24 pieces. The band rendered some excellent music which seemed highly appreciated by the Norwood people and visitors. Saturday was a big day and many were in attendance.

Mr. Eicher, horticultural agent of the Frisco railroad alighted at Mansfield and journeyed with the Mansfield boys to Norwood by auto. He made a very interesting talk at Norwood.

The Springfield Leader Sunday contained the following report of his meeting and the Norwood picnic.

D. E. Eicher, horticultural agent of the Frisco railroad attended the meeting of the fruit growers held at Norwood Friday and pronounced it one of the best meetings held since the drive was launched in connection with the growing of grapes.

One of the principal features of the meeting was the active part played by the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, there being more than 150 people, of Mansfield who made the trip.

A great interest is being taken by the people of Norwood and surrounding country. They think the grape industry an excellent prospect and from all information a large number of acres will be planted in grapes next spring.

F. V. Faurot, director of the Missouri Fruit Experimental station at Mountain Grove, has been testing various varieties of grapes and has found the Concord grape is best adapted to that section of the country.

He also found in testing the Concord grape that in this section of the country it ripens four to six weeks earlier than they do in the Concord section of Michigan and New York. He says the district around Norwood is especially adapted to the raising of grapes and that the people would find the grape industry a most profitable one.

Mr. Faurot also said the majority of the grape juice companies preferred the Concord grape to any other variety because they had less tartaric acid, which fact made them most desirable.

J. R. Cooper, horticultural agent at the University of Arkansas will be here in a short time to inspect the grape growing possibilities in the vicinity of Norwood. He will be accompanied by local Frisco officials of the agricultural department.

Meetings will be held at intervals during the fall and winter, in connection with the campaign for more grape growing. Mr. Eicher said that his department would work in co-operation with the chamber of commerce in the district and that they would be joined by officials of the Missouri Experimental Station, at Mtn. Grove.

It is understood that those interested in the grape industry will take an active part in the Missouri Farmers Association convention to be held here August 30 to Sept. 2nd.
